Announcing the Launch of symbolmaker.com

Announcing a new venture launching today, SymbolMaker.com (<http://www.symbolmaker.com>). SymbolMaker is a website of logos, symbols and concepts designed by Maggie Macnab, applied to usable products.

SymbolMaker is more than “designs for a global community”. SymbolMaker is also a community resource for those interested in symbols and symbolism, to exchange, educate and connect.

Symbol Community:

Message Board Connection is what symbolism is all about, so if you have a great resource, a question to ask the larger community, or an insight to share, please post it at <http://www.symbolmaker.com/message.html>. This is a community forum that I hope will become a well-used and international resource, connecting cultures and ideas, to expand knowledge of ourselves and each other.

Symbol Resources in the w3 Community In my years of teaching logo design and symbolism as visual literacy for graphic designers at the University of New Mexico, I’ve discovered some great resource to facilitate my teaching and expand access for my students. This is a start of links that will expand: <http://www.symbolmaker.com/resources.html>

Symbol and Logo Design Tip Sheet I teach and write on subject of symbols as visual literacy and will be sending out a one-sheet on a bi-monthly to monthly schedule. This will cover a variety of topics, from the most important aspects to creating a successful visual identity, to the fundamental connections between symbols and universal principles that I teach in workshops. You can sign up for this resource on the homepage of symbolmaker.com.

As the site develops, there will be new features added along with new designs. Please visit the site and feel free to pass this invitation along to friends, associates and family.

I look forward to connecting with you through the universal language of symbols!
